This juniperus bonsai is a work in progress, perfect for the amateur wishing to practise their technique. You can see in the final photo that with some wire, as well as thought and patience, you can achieve a beautiful tree with a sinuous trunk. Its form allows many possibilities for creating jin and shari. The chinensis itoigawa variety has small needle-like leaves that are ideal for bonsai. This moyogi-style tree is 15 years old and descends from a cutting.
